“Silence is in the festal halls—
Sweet Son of Song! thy course is o'er;
In vain on thee sad Erin calls,
Her minstrel's voice responds no more;—
All silent, as the Æolian shell
Sleeps at the close of some bright day,
When the sweet breeze, that wak'd its swell
At sunny morn, hath died away;
Yet, if our feasts, thy spirit long
Awak'd by music's spell, shall rise:—
For name so link'd with deathless song
Partakes its charme and never dies!”
